

The DLAs shown in figures are 4 samples realized in boxes of size 200 X 200. Each box was filled with 4800 points. The colors blue, red, and yellow were used to visually account for the time evolution of the DLA. From these four, and others, simulations I observed that the corners of the box seem to be filled less likely than the points in the middle of the edges.